This is the initial edition of the Army Executive Biography Book, a publication developed to provide commands and staffs with current information and data on Army's senior leadership. We hope that the book will prove useful in acquainting all members of the Army team with the accomplishments of its leaders, both military and civilian. This edition contains the biographies of the active Army general officer corps; future editions will be expanded to incorporate biographies of the members of the Army Secretariat and all Senior Executive Service personnel within Department of the Army.

It is our goal to revise this publication quarterly. Information and data on general officers will be provided by the General Officer Management Office (DAPE-GO) as changes occur. The Senior Executive Service Office (DAPE-CPS) will be the proponent for input and changes affecting the senior civilian leadership.
