

Artillery OCS Hall of Fame

Colonel Fletcher H. Maffett Class 4-57

Colonel Maffett's first duty assignment was as Chief, Nuclear Warhead Branch, Nike Hercules Division, United States Army Air Defense School, Fort Bliss, Texas.

His subsequent duty assignments include: Fire Direction Officer, 1st Missile Battalion, 42nd Artillery, 4th United States Army Missile Command, Camp Page, Korea; Commanding Officer, 232nd Signal Company, Fort Huachuca, Arizona; Instrument Flight Instructor, United States Army Aviation School, Fort Rucker, Alabama; Commanding Officer, Bravo Company, 504th Aviation Battalion, 4th Armored Division, Furth Army Air Field, Germany; Commander, 219th Airplane Company, Vietnam; Program Analyst, Office of the Secretary of the Army, The Pentagon; Commander, 40th Signal Battalion, Fort Huachuca, Arizona; Military Planning Officer, Office of the Chief of Staff, Army, The Pentagon; System Architect and Engineer for Joint Interoperability of Tactical Command and Control Systems, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff, Army (Operations and Plans), The Pentagon; Commander, United States Army Communications Command (Alaska), Fort Richardson, Alaska; Chief, Command, Control and Surveillance Division, Office of the Chief of Staff, Army (Research, Development and Acquisition), The Pentagon; Executive Officer to the Chief of Staff, Army (Research, Development and Acquisition), The Pentagon.

Colonel Maffett's decorations include the Defense Superior Service Medal, the Legion of Merit with two Oak Leaf Clusters, the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Bronze Star Medal, the Air Medal with eight Oak Leaf Clusters and the Meritorious Service Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters.