

LOUIS V. PARADISE CLASS 19-69

Mr. Paradise graduated from the Psychological Operations Unit Officer Course at the United States Army Institute for Military Assistance at Fort Bragg and was assigned to the 15th Psychological Operations Battalion. He then served with I Corps Artillery in Korea as the Corps Artillery Assistant S-2 and Later Acting S-2.

After leaving active duty he served on the graduate faculty of the Catholic University of America in Washington D.C. prior to a long and distinguished career with the University of New Orleans. There he served in administrative positions including department chair, Dean of the College of Education and Human Development, Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs and Provost. He was the university's first Executive Vice Chancellor.

He served as a professional consultant to a variety of public and private sector entities in grant and research activities in the field of psychology and counseling. He is the author or coauthor of five books. He has published 67 professional refereed articles in 38 different national and international research journals and mentored the research and scholarly development of numerous doctoral students.

Mr. Paradise has served multiple terms on the editorial boards of four different professional research journals. He has rendered outstanding service to the higher education community and academic profession of psychology and counselor education. He currently serves as provost emeritus, vice president emeritus and professor emeritus at the University of New Orleans.